

APW COGAN COMPLETE PRICE LIST

Effective AUGUST 01, 2011

Please call if you are not clear about anything. There are no so-called dumb questions only dumb accidental discharges.
Please read the disclaimer at the end of this price list.

Section One – Custom Gunsmithing Prices and Parts Installation

Section Two – Specific Late Model Pistolsmithing

Section Three – Disassembly and Re-assembly of Firearms (Read Me)

Section Four – Long-guns, Shotguns Rifles and Military

Section Five - Custom Carry Firearms – Personal Defense

Section Six - Custom Revolver Modifications and Upgrades

Section Seven - Refinishing, including individual parts and specifics

SECTION 1- CUSTOM GUNSMITHING PRICES

PLEASE READ THE SMALL PRINT: If you see the word REFIN or REFINISHING used in any of our pricing tables, next to, or conjoined with a column, or part, it means a small sum is added to refinish the part after the gunsmith has done the necessary filing, stoning, grinding, buffing, welding or sawing.

Obviously when metal is removed or reworked some cosmetic changes have to take place to restore the part to match what it's supposed to be which is the final delivered finish after metalworking is done.

Our Minimum Shop Charges of forty dollars ($40.00) and includes written estimates.

Our Minimum Handling Charge is $8.00.

NOTE: On all the newer S&W, Taurus and similar firearms with combined lock type integral safeties, there will be a $25.00 dollar surcharge to plate, repair, assemble and disassemble these products due to the intricacies of these additional parts.

CHECKERING AND STIPLING

Please Read: There may be EXTRA CHARGES For Checkering and stippling On Specific Brands as some manufacturers employ extra hardening techniques or unique alloys. The base prices above are for Colt and Springfield Armory 4140 type Chrome-Moly frames. The "harder alloys" results in increased tool wear and time by the pistol-smith/craftsman. This is entirely done by hand in the old world tradition. It is unmatched by machine type processes which look like they were done with a machine.

ADD: If you wish finer checkering with more lines than standard for that particular position, please add 15% to the base price.

ADD: Again very hard aftermarket receivers like Caspian, and Kimber, or stainless steel frames, please add 25% to the base prices.

ADD: The Para Ordnance frames total $250.00 because of their unique hardness and width.

SECTION 3

DISASSEMBLY & REASSEMBLY OF FIREARMS

NOTE: We strive at Accurate to be as precise as we can on pricing and break things down so you totally understand this isn't just a one size fits all industry. Or the bigger hammer approach.

Dis-Assembly and Re-Assembly of firearms is not included in the base pricing of the finishes as firearms vary in complexity and parts. This is not field striping. It's obvious the entire firearm is reduced to its smallest components, miniature screws, springs, and pins the manufacturer has selected any one of which if missing can cause a malfunction.

In addition some parts are one of a kind, or handmade and if lost or broken would have to be hand built or replaced. In some cases manufacturers made part combos never thinking they would be refinished, replaced or repaired.

PARTS OF FIREARMS ONLY (BY PERCENTAGE)

Note: Sometimes we are asked to only plate a receiver or half a firearm. You may want a matt chrome receiver on a .45 that was all blued or visa versa, a chrome top on a blue gun. We can do that. Go to the plating pricing table and select the finish you want. Lets say you wanted to plate a slide only in Brush Chrome. Price 170.00 for the whole gun. Slide only is 40% of $170.00 or cost to you is $68.00 for the slide only.

EDITORS NOTES and DISCLAIMER

(In Simple English)

1 - Please call if you are not clear about anything. There are no so-called dumb questions, only dumb accidental discharges that result in injuries and unplanned parenthood and sometimes no parenthood. Gun safety is rule one here.

2 - This is a new website in format, and software, on new servers, a grass roots start up and rollout, I, the Webmeister with a strong knowledge of the Refinishing and Custom Gunsmithing business am human. And there is a chance I may make a mistake. Because of communication and some awful funny wording in this game may make the occasional error in pricing or composition.

It only proves we are human when transcribing 40,000 words and numbers. We apologize for any errors but I do not intend to commit "seppuku" over it. I own Shun and Masimoto custom knives but to cook with, not to fall on.

3 - We try to cover the most common requests we get with a breakdown of the pricing. We are the only firm in the business that does this. Most places quote you a flat fee. With a breakdown, YOU know what YOU paid for and received.

Example: It's like shopping at the super market, this month alone, I found I was double billed on some items, and didn't get the discounts on others to the tune of twenty plus dollars. I got my twenty credited, and PUBLIX SUPERMARKETS deducts the mistakes so I got back an extra twenty in groceries. It doesn't always work that way.
